Climate change threatens the wellbeing of people around the globe.

Developed countries are responsible for most of the pollution that has caused climate change. Australia is one of the worst per capita polluters. Yet poor communities in developing countries are the ones that are being hit hardest and don't have the means to adapt.

We call on the Australian Government to show leadership on climate change by:

- Agreeing to cut Australia's greenhouse pollution by at least 40% by 2020 and at least 95% by 2050 (on 1990 levels)
- Providing developing countries with adequate financial assistance to help them adapt to climate change
- Helping developing countries to access renewable energy technologies
- Negotiating for a just and equitable post-2012 international agreement on climate change
